

My Future Career

My passion has always been to help others; therefore, I want to be a teacher. I think it's a wonderful job getting to experience children and help them with work. Kids need good education to be able to get good jobs. In the Bible it says "Behold, children are a heritage from the Lord, the fruit of the womb is a reward," in Psalms 127:3. I can help students learn and help them stand on their own feet. Also my grandma owns a daycare, and this is where my passion started. That's why I love children so much. I have always been helping around ever since I was little. These are my reasons why I want to be a teacher.

First, I want to be a teacher because I think it's a wonderful job. I help children if their struggling with any classwork. I need to be able to build the children's education, take it to another level. Each year is another level and another curriculum. I need to also make sure children are feeling confident. This is my first reason why I want to be a teacher.

Second, I want to be a teacher to help children learn new things, help them stand on their own feet, and help them learn life lessons. I want to be able to teach them how to read, write, and calculate. Handling a lot of work is hard and stressful, but I need to remember what the Bible says. In Galatians 6:9 it says, "And let us not grow weary while doing good, for in due season we shall reap if we do not lose heart." I love this Bible verse because it shows even when I get tired and weak, I know I am creating something good. This is my second reason why I want to be a teacher.

Lastly, my grandma owns a daycare so I've always helped around. I've helped with infants, toddlers and older kids. I also help with kids my own age with their 2 homework who are struggling. Some kids my age don't learn well in school so I decided to help, and it's something that I still do. I feel like helping people is my passion. Sometimes it's really hard for kids to understand but I'll do whatever it takes to help them get there. This is my third reason why I want to be a teacher.

In conclusion, those are the reasons why I want to be a teacher. I think teaching is a fun job getting to experience new things. In the Bible it says "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it" in Proverbs 22:6. Children are a gift from God and I want to be able to build them. I want to be able to show them how to be somebody. I want to wake them up and show them the world.
